ANNUAL REPORT

LATER LAW STUDENTS NETWORK

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

After the past few years saw an unfortunate decrease in the visibility and participation of the Later Law Students' Network, 2022 presented an opportunity to start fresh and hopefully lay the groundwork for the future success and viability of the network.

Since beginning the year with only two executive committee members and without access to the network's funds, the LLSN ends the year in a very different, and significantly improved, position. We have re-established the network's visibility, re-established important internal and external contacts, and, most importantly, re-populated the committee with an enthusiastic new group of people looking to take it forward.

Though the year was light on events, we made sure to bring up to date our online presence, including the network's website and Facebook community group. Through these we reached our members and the wider MLS community to update on the general meetings and the wonderful meet and greet event facilitated by the MLS Liaison for later law students and student with carers responsibilities, Associate Professor Rebecca Nelson.

We can't thank Bec enough for her assistance in facilitating the event, and how important it was in the effort to re-populate the committee. This was just one of the important connections that were re-established or preserved throughout this year.

Through our new Wellbeing Officer, Benedicta Rousseau, we re-established the voice of later law students and carers on the Student Equality and Wellbeing Committee.

Particularly crucial now given the planned move back towards a heavily on campus experience, likely to affect the network's members more than most. Externally, we have also preserved the existing connection with LIV's Young Lawyers Later Lawyers Network and look forward to potential future collaborations as that relationship continues.

While we may have fallen short of some of our more ambitious targets surrounding events, 2022 saw success in the LLSN's primary goal entering the year, ensuring the network's immediate and future viability.

I have no doubt that the incoming committee will build on this and take the group to its fullest potential in 2023 and beyond!

Richard Pagone, LLSN President 2022
